Chung-Hwa Buddhist Journal

The Chung-Hwa Buddhist Journal, published annually, now accepts articles in English only. Scholars writing in Chinese and Japanese are encouraged to submit articles to the Dharma Drum Journal of Buddhist Studies. The Chung-Hwa Buddhist Journal is now accepting academic manuscripts relating to Buddhism in the areas of Literature, History, Philology, Philosophy, Art, Psychology, and Education. Deadline for submissions is December 15. Publication date for the New Volume will be in July.

Articles should be no longer than 20,000 words, and should be submitted electronically. Acceptable file formats are ODT, DOC, RTF, and XML. A PDF-version of your file may accompany one of the above formats to forestall printing errors, but please do not submit a PDF-version alone.

Submissions should include an abstract, a list of five keywords, and a reference list. Text citations and reference lists should be in accordance with The Chicago Manual of Style Author-date format (see below). Chinese characters are acceptable, but Sanskrit, Pāli, and Tibetan words must be romanized. The Chung-Hwa Buddhist Journal reserves the right to edit manuscripts for content and style.

The Chung-Hwa Buddhist Journal is an internationally circulated peer-reviewed academic journal. Submissions are examined by two peer-reviewers. In cases of disagreement, a third reviewer is consulted. The Journal judges submissions on the basis of scholarly excellence while maintaining an attitude of broad-mindedness. Perspectives representing varying points of view are embraced. The editors urge scholars to adhere to normal stylistic conventions such as those set forth in The Chicago Manual of Style.

The Chung-Hwa Buddhist Journal does not accept manuscripts which have been published previously. The Chung-Hwa Institute of Buddhist Studies retains the right to publish articles from the Journal on Internet databases as well as on CD-ROM. Re-publication by the author in other periodicals or books, as well as distribution in any other form, is prohibited without prior permission.

The Journal does not pay royalties. Upon publication, each author will receive two complimentary copies of the Chung-Hwa Buddhist Journal, and 10 printed copies of their article separate from the Journal.

When sending your manuscript, please include your name, academic position, complete mailing address, telephone number and your e-mail address. Please email all submissions to chbj@chibs.edu.tw.
